Solid Comfort

Is what one of our leading plantation men says he gets from wearing "SCRIVENS IMPROVED PATENT ELASTIC SEAM DRAWERS."

Nothing to rip or tear, fit comfortably and snugly, are self adjusting, and do not bind about the hips and legs.

They are cool in summer, warm in winter.

Especially adapted for use by heavy, stout men.

See the display of these model garments in our Merchant street window. Try a pair; you will never regret it.

KILAUEA BURNING BLUE SMOKE

UNUSUAL COLOR TO SMOKE THAT IS BEING SENT FROM KILAUEA.
MAUNA LOA BRINGS NEWS.

"Mokuawewe is in greater eruption this week" said Captain Simerson of the steamer Mauna Loa "than it was on our previous trip to Hawaii. The volcano shows no signs of abating and the fires are still burning fiercely in the summit crater."

Captain Simerson and those aboard the Mauna Loa had an excellent opportunity of observing the activity of the big mountain and all say that the eruption is increasing steadily. There has as yet, been no lava flow and the activity is apparently kept confined to the summit crater. The officers of the vessel stated that they saw no evidence of any lava flow or open fissures lower down the sides of the mountain.

There has been a cloud about the mountain at times however during the stay of the vessel about Kau and Kona and the fire was not so plainly visible to the naked eye as on the former trip. The fire is still shooting upward from the crater however and it was watched every night from the vessel. On Sunday night while at Honuapo, the people on the steamer Mauna Loa saw ample evidence of the fine dust that causes the after glow. There was a cloud about the mountain so the Mauna Loa's search light was thrown on the mountain. It was then that the officers and others saw the cloud of fine dust that had risen from the volcano and settled down about the island.

Purser Conkling reports that last Saturday Mrs. Q. H. Berry, Mrs. W. L. Howard, George Robertson, Jr., and others started from Kilauea for the summit. Other parties were reported to be starting or else having started from the Hilo side for the scene of the outbreak.

Kilauea is beginning to belch forth a strange colored smoke. She is throwing up blue smoke according to the officers of the Mauna Loa. Ordinarily Kilauea does not show this sort of smoke but last week she began to show a new color. It is thought that this kind of smoke is indicative of the fact that gasses are being generated in the volcano.

Officers on the steamer Mauna Loa say that the best way of going up to the summit crater is by way of Napoosoo. Griggs Holt, Robert Shingle, A. Lewis, Jr., A. Gartley who made the ascent to Mokuawewe in company with Emil Berndt of the Star, did not return on the Mauna Loa this week but will remain longer on Hawaii transacting personal business. They will return within the course of a week. Gartley, Lewis and P. M. Pond are expected to return tonight by the steamer Iwawani. Mr. Berndt returned this morning on the Mauna Loa. He is the first Honolulu man to return from visiting the scene of the outbreak and was also the first Honolulu man to reach the scene of the outbreak. He has furnished a graphic account of the eruption exclusively to the Star.

TRIED TO JUMP FROM STEAMER

CRAZED MAN PREVENTED FROM JUMPING FROM MAUNA LOA AT HOOPULO.

The steamer Mauna Loa arrived this morning from her regular run to Hawaii and Maui ports. She did not bring back the usual large crowd of passengers but she had a full load of freight. She brought 8,000 bags of sugar for C. Bower and Company. The vessel broke the record loading sugar. She took 8,000 bags herself and helped put 4,100 bags into the steamer Naeau at Punaluu in 19 hours.

Aside from the interest attached to the eruption of Mokuawewe, the trip proved quite exciting. On Sunday evening Namau a half crazed dope fiend went clean off his head and tried to jump overboard. Chief Officer Mitchell had a restraining influence on him in the way of about 200 pounds of solid flesh as the mate proceeded to sit on top of the raving man while the latter was being secured. Namau tried almost from the time that the vessel left Hookena for Napoosoo to jump overboard.

Purser Conkling reports that an unusually large catch of Oopelo was made at Kailua Friday, 8,000 fish being taken in one haul.

William Oge head luna of Pahala plantation is reported to be very ill with typhoid fever.

Emil A. Berndt was the only visitor to the scene of the eruption, to return to Honolulu on the steamer.

LABOR AND LEGISLATION.

The secretary of the Honolulu Trades and Labor Council has written the following letter.

Honolulu, H. T., Oct. 18, 1903.
Hon. Clarence L. Crabbe, President Senate of Hawaii, Honolulu, T. H.
Sir: I beg to acknowledge the receipt of the bound volume of the proceedings of the Senate, and on behalf of the Honolulu Trades and Labor Council I wish to thank you for the same.

The council appreciates the efforts put forth in our behalf, for the enactment of laws for the employment of citizens upon Government work, and we trust that the seeds planted in behalf of American principles, by the last Senate, will mature into a live tree of American knowledge for the benefit of future generations.

Wishing you continued success, I am, yours very respectfully,

CARL M. TAYLOR,
Secretary.

TRAVIS-NEWTON.

Mrs. S. B. Travis and Lieutenant Harry W. Newton, U. S. A., were married at 11 o'clock this morning in the parlors of the Moana Hotel. Rev. William Morris Kincaid officiating. Miss Stella Love was the bridesmaid. Lieut. Davis was the best man. Following the marriage ceremony the party sat down to a wedding breakfast. Among the guests were Admiral Terry, Lieut. Com. Niblack, Lieut. Com. Rodman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. McGrew and others.

NEED WALKING DELEGATES.

The beggars in Spain have formed a combine and are going to try to keep all of the two centimo pieces out of circulation by holding them whenever they secure any. The object of this beggars' trust is to make people give a larger coin.

JERRY IS DEAD.

"Jerry," the big ox which has been exhibited at so many New England fairs during past years, was killed early in the week. He was 18 years old and as he was losing weight it was thought best to send him to the slaughter-house. The ox weighed 4365 pounds at one time and was one of the heaviest if not the heaviest oxen in the country.

MIGHT BE WORSE.

A story is told about Joseph Chamberlain, the English colonial secretary, and the manner in which he delivered his first speech while at school. He stepped to the platform, made a couple of deep bows, then made a third and sat down, being too frightened to say a word. This speech won even more applause than some of his recent utterances, and one could have heard a slight noise in the room at that.

THE GOOD OLD WAY.

Men in some parts of Maine do not believe in progress and one in Parkhurst has just proved it. He had a bad toothache, so twisted some wire around a couple of teeth, fastened the other end to the side of the barn and started to run. The teeth stayed behind, but the man proved to his entire satisfaction that doctors, and especially dentists, are a needless luxury.

MARRIED AN IMITATION.

"She always said she would never marry an insipid foreigner," said the young woman. "She did worse," answered Miss Cayenne. "She married an American young man who does his best to be an imitation of insipid foreigners."—Washington Star.

TO CANADA.

A little while before John F. Gaynor took up his residence in Canada for his health he went to a lawyer and told him the story of his life and asked him what he thought about it from a legal standpoint. The lawyer, who was an old friend, looked Gaynor over and said, "You don't need a lawyer, John; what you need is a locomotive." And John took the locomotive.

REAL EXCITING.

When the Yankee put into Newport with her bunkers afire there was great excitement among the red-coated ones at the golf club.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

tricity. News of the occurrence was brought this morning by Purser Conkling and Chief Engineer Donnelly of the steamer Mauna Loa.

The accident occurred late Thursday afternoon during a heavy electrical storm that swept over that part of the islands. Two natives had caught some fish and taken them up to the house to clean them for dinner. The storm came up and drove the men into the kitchen. Suddenly a bolt of lightning descended and struck the stove pipe, ran down the pipe onto the stove, jumped from the stove onto the floor, knocked a hole through the floor and found its way into the ground. Both native men were injured by the lightning. They were knocked down. One of them sustained a severe shock on the back of the neck and the other was hurt about the back. Both were burned by the electricity. That portion of the house was of course badly damaged, the stove pipe and portion of the roof and floor being wrecked.

Some time later a second bolt of lightning struck the house. The bolt descended a post in another part of the building, shattered the post into tiny splinters. Leaning against the post was a gun. The lightning left the wood, jumped onto the steel of the gun barrel, raced down the metal without doing it any injury, then jumped back onto the post, splintered the lumber into bits, and disappeared through the floor after wrecking portions of the planking. A cat was killed by this bolt.

Within a comparatively short time a third bolt struck the house. The lightning raced down a partition post, splintered the wood, leaped onto a ramrod leaning against the post, jumped back onto the wood, splintered the lumber into bits, and made a large hole in the floor. The roof of the Gay dwelling was badly wrecked by the bolts of lightning.

The Gay premises appear to have been under the very center of the electric storm, for other bolts of lightning descended about the place. A fourth bolt struck a horse and killed it almost instantly, while a fifth struck a bull in the hand of a native, knocked him down, and knocked down the horse he was unharnessing. Neither the man nor the horse were badly injured from the shock, however, and soon recovered. No one else about the place was injured. All of the bolts of lightning fell within the space of an hour.

DEVoured BY SHARKS

TERRIBLE DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN OFF HONUPO
LAST FRIDAY—FELL INTO DEEP WATER—BEFORE ASSISTANCE COULD BE GIVEN WAS SEIZED BY SHARKS AND DRAGGED UNDER WATER.

A shocking tragedy of the sea occurred at Honuapo last Friday. News of the occurrence was brought this morning by the steamer Mauna Loa.

Mrs. Kalei Kala, a young native woman, was walking along the edge of the reef at Honuapo in company with her father, who was fishing. In some manner the woman lost her footing and fell into the deep water. Although a native, the woman, strange to relate, could not swim. She cried for help but before her father could throw a line or anything to her, she was carried further out into the deeper water. The man could not swim either, or else he became terror stricken, and ran, crying for help, while the woman was left to her fate. But the woman did not die by drowning. A worse fate awaited her.

As the woman was going down the second time, she was seized by sharks. The woman uttered a shriek of terror as she felt herself seized by the sea wolves and dragged beneath the surface of the water. There was a slight ripple on the surface where she had been dragged beneath the waters and then all was still. Nothing further was ever seen of the woman. Parties of natives searched and dragged the surrounding waters for trace of her, but nothing was found. The dead woman was 24 years of age.

ANOTHER HOLDUP AT KAPUKAKI

JAPANESE ATTACK BY HIGHWAYMAN AND SLASHED
ABOUT HAT AND CLOTHES—ESCAPED WITHOUT BEING SERIOUSLY INJURED—ATTEMPTED ROBBERY
OCCURRED LAST NIGHT—REPORTED TO POLICE.

Another hold-up occurred last night at Kapukaki hill. As in the other cases of robbery reported in that vicinity, a Japanese was the victim.

Few details of the affairs have been learned. The robbery occurred last night. The Jap was stopped at the bill by a robber. The Jap resisted the demand of the robber to "hand over your money." The robber was not apparently armed with a revolver, but he had a knife, and with this weapon he slashed at the victim. The Jap's hat and clothes were cut and he sustained a slight scratch. The Jap succeeded in running away and making his way to Honolulu Plantation where he reported the matter.

The attempt to rob the Japanese at Kapukaki hill is a surprise. The officers thought that with the recent arrest of the gang of Chinese highwaymen and murderers who were operating in that vicinity for some months, they had succeeded in checking all further depredations and attacks. There may still be a fifth member of the Chinese gang abroad who has taken to the road again to try and get booty. The reported affair is being investigated. The robber is reported not to have secured any money.

"BREAK UP THE GANGS."

Complaints are made in this as well as in other cities that gangs of young ruffians are causing trouble, and that they not only insult and threaten people, but that they are responsible for most of the minor robberies that occur. The mob which is the gang grown larger, can usually be handled, and the mob at its very worst is not responsible for a tithe of the loss that is caused by the gang. Mobs have caused hangings and burnings, and the sum-total of these murders and the subsequent violence against property, is considerable. But in New York alone there is not a week that passes without death occurring from the fights in which the gangs delight. New York is but one city, and all other cities fall in line in proportion to their size. The gang is the breeding place of the criminal. Young men who are too cowardly to act alone do not hesitate to act in concert with other youths of like viciousness and like cowardice. The result is an appalling list of crimes ranging from insult and assault to burglary and murder. There is in Worcester the nucleus of gangs that would go as far as any in the large cities. Usually these gangs are the primary school of traps and criminals produced here. It is safe for the police to act on the presumption that the gang intends no good, and the police should consider it their duty to break up the gangs. It is only in this way that the city can be assured of safety.—Worcester Telegram.

MAKE IT USEFUL.

It is now suggested that the next war game be held on July 4, and so have the noise count for a part of the celebration and make it good for something. If there must be noise and war games this is not a bad plan.
